

Meet Susan Page

Susan Page has been conducting workshops for both singles and couples, nationally and internationally since 1980. She has keynoted dozens of relationship conventions and was invited to share the platform with John Gray at his recent Masonic Auditorium event in San Francisco. Her international speaking and media career has taken her to twenty-six states, Canada, Korea, Australia, and Mexico. She is a past chapter president of the National Speakers Association.

Page was a consultant to writer/director Gary Goldberg on the movie Must Love Dogs, released by Warner Pictures in August of 2005.

A veteran of national television and radio, Susan Page has appeared on Oprah three times and on Good Morning America, CNN's News Night Update, Donahue, Geraldo, Leeza, Montel Williams, Sonya Live, The David Essel Show, The Jim Bohannon Show, and The Diane Rehm Show, in addition to hundreds of local radio and TV shows across the country.

Excerpts of Susan's works have appeared or been reviewed in People Magazine, USA Today, Cosmopolitan, Redbook, Glamour, Self, New Woman, McCall's, Woman, Marriage, Lotus, Publisher's Weekly, and Kirkus Magazines.

Susan Page is the author of five books about relationships plus a publishing guide for writers:

Why Talking Is Not Enough

8 Loving Actions That Will Transform Your Marriage

(Jossey Bass/John Wiley May 2006)

If We're So In Love, Why Aren't We Happy?

(Harmony Books 2003)

How One of You Can Bring the Two of You Together

(Broadway Books 1997)

The Eight Essential Traits of Couples Who Thrive

(Little, Brown 1994)

If I'm So Wonderful, Why Am I Still Single?

(Viking 1988; Three Rivers Press 2002)

The Shortest Distance Between You and a Published Book

(Broadway Books 1997)

If I'm So Wonderful, Why Am I Still Single? has been translated into twenty foreign languages. It was the number one bestseller in Russia in 1994. Page's books have sold more than a million copies in the U.S. and worldwide.

Susan Page is a graduate of Oberlin College and holds a Master of Divinity degree from San Francisco Theological Seminary. She began her career as campus minister at Washington University in St. Louis and at Columbia University in New York. Later, she served as Director of Women's Programs at the University of California, Berkeley, where she helped found the nation's first university-based human sexuality program.

When she is not conducting workshops in the United States, Susan Page lives in San Miguel de Allende, Mexico with her husband of twenty-five years.